An Information.—For several days past in elderly man, of the shabby genteel these, has been working upon the sympathies of charitable [Islanders in a way hey despise. He represented himself as seing a member in good standing of the M. E. Church, at Plainfield, New Jersey, Ilaving lost his situation there, and being mable to get employment, the congregation had kindly made up a purse and sent its family to Chicago, whither he was to ollow, hoping in that enterprising Western city to build up his shattered ortunes. He himself was assisted as far as Pittsburgh, and there a number of Methodists raised a purse or him and paid his expenses to Steusenville. The Steubenvillians, not to be outdone in charitable deeds, sent him lown to up, but we hope they will in the duture have more charity for us and less or strangers. Hay—that's what he said is name was—showed everal letters to stablish his claim upon the generosity of our Island friends, and succeeded in raising quite a little "stake."

In the meantime the object of their charity made I'ay while the sun shone. But he lingered here too long. One of its victims, while on this side of the river, met Hay walking on the street in very bad company—in company with a notorious symphe dapse, in fact. ms victims, while on this side of the river, met Hay walking on the street in very bad company—in company with a notorious symphe dayse, in fact. When Hay was accused of being in bad company, he explained that the woman had met him on the street and asked him for ten cents, and that he had walked a little ways with her. However, the falsity of this statement was proven by the evidence of everal persons who saw flay with the woman in another part of the city. Nothing daunted, he applied to a gentleman from whom he had already obtained some money, for a ticket to Chicago. He was told that if he could prove his innocence of the charges brought against him, the ticket would be furnished, when he said that he could do so, and would the next day, at an hour agreed upon, he took his departure, and hasn't been seen since. The peeple who contributed to his support while here, and who gave liberally of their means to assist the man to Chicago, are clearly of the opinion that he is an impostor. Specialties-I. BANDY VS. STRAL—A bandy-legged A Victors Dog.—In the Eighth Ward yesterday morning, Mrs. Charles Bryson was severely bitten by a victors dog be-longing to Wm. Dixon. DEATH OF A PITTEBURGH HOTEL KEEPER.—A private dispatch received in this city last night brought the intelli-gence of the death of Mr. Edward Seither, one of the proprietors of the St. Charles Hotel, at Pittsburgh. Mr. Seither died There is some talk of an excursion to Moundaville to-night by a party of young ladies and gentlemen of the city. If the trip is made they will leave here at 6½ r. Bandy Vs. Spiral.—A bandy-legged counter-jumper and a spiral-legged grocer's clerk ran a race, on South Main street, Sunday evening, to the amusement of a large crowd of delighted spectators. The grocer's clerk was the victor, the knight of the yard stick coming in to the starting point considerable behind, he making a grand detour before finishing the race, his handy legs carrying him around a complete circle. The contestants and friends retired to a well known restaurant after the race had been decided and there squandered the stakes on oysters and pickles. Send him another challenge, "bandy," and don't sell out the next time. CHALLENGE NOT ACCEPTED. — The challenge offered by Schafer to row a scull race with Kryter was not accepted. They were to meet at the Alantic Saloon last evening, but Mr. Kryter and his backers did not appear. Bets were in favor of Schafer by $100 to $80. Going Gunning.—Mr. Charley Moener-emoeller, the popular prescription clerk at Schnepf's drug store, and Mr. Geo. Lohnes, of Sheib's music store, have de-signs upon the squirrels up Caldwell's Run. They will leave this morning, and be abeent for several days.

thich religious services are regularly ducted, and which are attended by all inneates of the institution. Scientific ectures are frequently given in the chapel, and a remarkable interest is taken in them by the boys. Every available means is taken to create a desire for chowledge, and to encourage the boys to improve themselves in every way. There is no regularity about the style of the lottling, but it consists of a uniform gray. Some of the boys were reagle buttons on their clothes, which indicate that they have been very orderly during the time they have been in the institution, while thers wear maltese crosses as a reward or extra good behavior. The building is made to look home-like and attractive, and is probably a better home than many of the boys ever exper-ienced. Our committee visited the place about noon, and were astonished to see how well the boys were taken care of. There was a snowy white cloth on the table; also white cups and plates, and shining knives and forks. The fare for dinner consisted of nice white bread, areat, beans and potatoes, with a cup of cold water to wash it down. Before eating the whole number joined in pronouncing a blessing upon the food set before them, and did not commence to eat until a signal was given by an officer of the institution who sat at the head of the table.

There is a farm connected with this in stitution, upon which many of the boys are employed. Others, under the instruction of competent workmen, make and mend their shoes, clothing, etc. The bread is baked and the cooking done entirely by the inmates. No work is done by the boys outside of the institution is itself, but the products of the farm, over and above what is used in the house, are sold. The institution is said to be not quite self-sustaining, but nearly so. At this place there are no guards, the institution being enclosed in a high wall.

From Baltimore the committee went to Philadelphia, where they visited a house of reluge at Homesburg Junction, on the Delaware river, about ten miles from the city. There are something over 1,600 males and females in this institution, most of whom were committed for petty midenmentors, such as drunkenness, disorderly conduct, petty larcery, etc. Every day at 12 oclock an iron-clad car leaves the city with a number of or 90 day, six months, nie monthe or one year, according to the nature of the offense. Upon the day that our friends visited the institution, twenty-two prisoners arrived in an entire the car, four of whom were women. They were each examined, and a description of their personal appearance, occuration, age, place of birth, etc., recorded for future reference. Of the twenty-two mentioned above, the majority were horn in Philadelphia. The uniform worn there is attried, and similar to that worn in penitentiries.

The men are put to work on the farm, in cooper shops, blacksmith shops, stone quarrica, etc., while the women make and mend clothing for themselves and their fellow prisoners, do the cooking and housework generally, and manage a large steam laundry. The baking is done by the men, and about eighteen barries of four are used every day. The products of this farm are simply enormous, and go a great way towards paying the expenses of the institution. Another item of some consequence is the meat eath by the immates, which chauorate report upon the subject, but it do the Board.

It is the intention of the committee to recommend Ohio county to establish an institution of the kind which may comhime the characteristics of both the house of correction and the house of refuge.
They propose to erect, on the Poor House farm, which contains one hundred and sixty acres, a building that may accommodate all classes of petty criminals, from youth to manhood and womanhood.
If the Board should adopt their recommendations, the Clerk will be instructed to advertise for plans to be submitted to a committee, and those which may be found more desirable for the furtherance of their scheme will be accepted and paid for. It is an object with the committee to adopt such plans as may permit them to build only as they require room. For instance, they propose, at the start, to put up only a wing of the building, large enough to contain such hersons as may be sent there at first.
Then, as occasion demands, it may be enlarged. In this way the actual cost of a fine building will not be severely felt by the taxpayers, as only a small appropriation will be made at the start, and as the various additions are being put to the various addition have been upon their trip, that an institution in this county, of the kind proposed, would in a few years prove self-sustaining.
